Tentative Needs Outlined For WT

By ANN MELIN

A bold new program of student recruitment, fund raising and "involvement with the people of the Golden Spread" was described by Keith Winter, West Texas State University's new director of development, at a meeting Tuesday of the Women's Division of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking for the first time before Canyon residents, Winter announced the establishment of a President's Development Fund created for the purpose of providing funds for the "unrestricted use of the President in developing programs for the University.

"I've heard too many people say 'We'd help WT if someone asked us to, but no one has asked us.' Well, now we're going to be asking the people of the Golden Spread for their contributions and involvement," Winter told the group.

The Development Fund, he said, will be a part of the West Texas State University Foundation, and all contributions will be tax-deductible.

"Funds for this purpose are not provided by the legislature. Almost every university I have visited has had a fund of this kind except WTSU," Winter said.

The director of development outlined a "tentative schedule" of funds needed for university development through the newly-established President's Fund.

The thrust of the program will be in five major areas and the total amount needed for development through the fund has been estimated at about $75,000, he said.

Earmarked for recruitment of students and "miscellaneous public relations" under the Fund is a tentative total of $17,500.

An estimated $15,000 will be needed for the establishment of a "Faculty Adventure Fund," created for the purpose of implementation of "innovative and progressive ideas" of members of the WTSU faculty, he said.

The creation of a Presidential Student Scholarship fund will call for an estimated $10,000, Winter said. The competitive scholarship program will seek out the top 20 students in the Panhandle and offer each of them a $500 scholarship to West Texas State University.

"In this way, we're hoping to attract outstanding students in the Panhandle who usually have been recruited by other big universities like SMU, Baylor and the Universities of Oklahoma and Texas," Winter said.

A fund amounting to about $15,000 will be needed for "memberships and entertainment," Winter said. In the past he said, university officials acting in a promotional capacity for the school have had to pay for memberships in various civic organizations "out of their own pocketbooks."

"No funds have been available for the university President or any school officials to entertain visitors at WTSU — and that's promotion," Winter said.

Lake Committee Takes First Step To Help Buffalo Water Problem

The chairman of a citizens committee concerned with the fate of Buffalo Lake traveled to Lubbock Tuesday to take a first step toward trying to ensure the lake gets its share of water from Tierra Blanca Creek.

Jack Brandt of Umbarger testified Tuesday at a public hearing held by the Texas Water Quality Board in Lubbock for the purpose of considering the cancellation or modification of a permit issued to Friona Feed Yards, Inc., of Friona.

No decision on the feed yard permit was issued Tuesday and a recommended decision, which is to be passed to the board as a whole, is expected to be made public in about two weeks. The board must then consider the recommendation of Tuesday's hearing officer and pass on the permit.

Brandt, representing an ad hoc committee of about 100 persons, told the hearing officer Tuesday the group adheres to the principle that waste control facilities should be provided to retain all waste from the cattle feed yard.

Currently, waste material from Friona Feed Yard flows into a large lake formed by the damming of Tierra Blanca Creek near Hereford.

In past meetings, the local committee has noted that because waste goes into the lake, water which might otherwise be released to come into Buffalo Lake is too polluted for such use. However, they've discussed, if Friona Feed Yard disposed of the waste through their own facility, water from the large dammed lake might be available for release according to state regulations into the creek and thus into the lake.

Even so, the committee has been told that not a large amount of water could be expected from the creek source. It would not solve the problem of diminishing water area in Buffalo Lake.

Brandt told the hearing officer that the lake, during period of below normal precipitation, has suffered from lack of inflow and polluted conditions.

"The citizens committee is interested in both the quality and quantity of the surface flows of Tierra Blanca Creek and its tributaries providing inflow to Buffalo Lake," he said. "In regard to water quality, we adhere to the principles. . . that waste control facilities shall be provided to retain all waste water flowing from cattle feeding pens and associated areas as a result of rainfall that is equal to or less than that which can be expected to occur in any 24-hour period at an average recurrence interval of once in 25 years. . ."

He said the committee also advocates the principle that tailwater control facilities shall be provided to prevent the discharge to streams of any feedlot waste water used for irrigation.

"In regard to water quantity," he said, "we desire to obtain all of the water, exclusive of the quantities of waste water flowing from cattle feeding pens and associated areas as previously defined to which Buffalo Lake is entitled under priority and quantity of use as determined by the Texas Water Rights Commission."

Representatives of the feed yard also testified at the hearing.

Water Quality Board action on the permit is expected in about 60 days.

Members of the steering committee of the citizens group meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Canyon courthouse to hear further developments in how to obtain water for Buffalo Lake.

Homecoming This Week; Eagles To Meet Pampa

It's homecoming weekend at Canyon High School and bonfires, suppers and a big Canyon Eagle-Pampa Harvester game are on tap for returning exes and current students.

The weekend's activities begin about 9 p.m. today as the cheerleaders hold a pep rally with a blazing bonfire as backdrop just behind the high school. The sophomore class has been collectwood for the bonfire, which is scheduled for ignition after dusk.

Friday night, prior to the Eagle outing, the Canyon band parents will host their annual spaghetti supper at the high school cafeteria. The supper begins at 5 and ends at 7 p.m. with tickets costing $1 for high school students and below and $1.50 for adults. Tickets may be purchased from any level band student.

The Eagles, who are still striving to win a second game this season, will take on Pampa's Harvesters at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Kimbrough Stadium.

The Harvesters, another AAAA opponent for the AAA Eagles, are expected to be at full strength for the outing, with several players who have been out for the first part of the season back.

Coach Ron Mills, who says he's pleased with the playing of his team against their AAAA opponents, is looking for his first win Friday night since the Eagles played Spearman in the season opener.

But, he concedes Pampa may be tough.

"Pampa had some kids out all year, and now they're back," Mills said.

One is a little half-back, who hasn't played yet this season, but who started for Pampa last year.

Another back, a fullback and linebacker, will return to the lineup to put additional spark in the Pampa backfield.

Even without those two returnees, Mills said the Harvesters would have been ample competition. They lost by only one point to Palo Duro, one point to Perryton and 12 points to Hereford.

Their quarterback, a good passer and runner, also started last year for Pampa.

To round out the backfield, the Harvesters have a wingback who can run a 9.6 100.

The Eagles, in preparation for Pampa, have spent the week working on mistakes they made against Hereford last weekend. Fumbles cost the Eagles at least one touchdown.

But, Mills says the Eagles are now running into health problems.

Fullback Adrian Foil is not expected to be at full speed Friday night and neither is Gary Bednorz, stalwart groundgainer for the Eagles. Both were hurt in last weekend's outing, but will play Friday night.

Mills said it is doubtful Rick Lewis, who is a primary target for the aerial bombs of Ed Lair, will be able to play but may be slowed by a leg injury.

"We'll have to try some of the younger guys and see what they can do," Mills said of his health problem.

In examining the Eagle game against Hereford, Mills said outstanding performances were turned in by Lair, who threw for more than 200 yards, running back Jimmy Ward, and Bob Counseller, Tom Grimes, Kelly Forehand and Terry Slagle.

Chamber Eyes Race Sanction

The Canyon Chamber of Commerce will attempt to have the annual Canyon 500 bicycle races sanctioned by a state or national bike association in an effort to attract more participants and make Canyon the home of a major bike race.

Reviewing the results of last Saturday's races at their Monday night meeting, board members of the Chamber tacitly approved an attempt at receiving the sanction of a bicycle association for the race.

Board President Raymond Raillard said the sanction would not only bring in a number of racing teams from other areas of the state and nation, but would make the races "more exciting."

Eight teams participated in the Canyon 500 100-lap bike race Saturday, which saw an Amarillo team of two men take home $100 in gift certificates donated by Canyon merchants.

Also discussed in connection with the annual bike races was the possibility of promotion merchant involvement. Members mentioned the possibility of asking merchants to hold sidewalk sales or a bazaar around the downtown square area to help bring people to town and to aid their businesses.

Final plans were laid Monday night for this morning's

Tax Statements Due Out This Week For Locals

Tax statements to raise revenue for another year's operation of Randall County, Canyon School District, City of Canyon and the South Randall County Hospital District have been mailed to local and area residents.

Area residents will be paying nearly $2.5 million in taxes this year to operate the county, schools and hospital.

The bulk of that total is expected to be collected during October, when a 3 per cent discount is available.

Mrs. Audrey Bruse, county tax assessor-collector, said statements will be mailed late this week and should be received by residents this week or early next week.

The tax roll to be collected by the county office totals $936,203, but that total includes collections for state tax of $101,000, for county tax of $685,988, water district tax of $4,139, Bushland school district tax of $20,573, and hospital district tax of $124,377.

A 2 per cent discount is available for those who pay their county-collected taxes in November and a 1 per cent discount is available for those who pay in December.

Those who don't pay until February or after can expect a penalty of 1½ per cent to be added for each month the taxes are unpaid.

The current roll is the first issued by the county tax office under a new computer system devised and implemented by West Texas State University's computer center.

Mrs. Bruse said the new system is working well with few problems. The county is paying not more than $20,000 for the service for the first year.

Conway Kuykendall, tax assessor-collector for city and school district taxes, said this week a computer malfunction downstate had made his issuance of tax statements a bit late this year.

Usually, he said, tax statements are mailed to his office in time for their issuance before Oct. 1. The tax roll was not expected in his office until Wednes

AAUP Eyes Constitution For Faculty

A new constitution which could substantially alter the faculty's participation in decision-making at West Texas State University will be examined by the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

During a chapter meeting Monday afternoon, members of the group heard a report on the constitution worked up by an AAUP committee during the summer for presentation to the AAUP as a whole.

The committee, headed by George Ritter, professor of government, offered to present the proposed constitution to the membership at their next meeting.

Ritter said the constitution calls for full faculty participation in decision-making involving the faculty. But, he noted that the constitution might be too great a jump for the WTSU faculty, which now works through a Faculty Council.

Ms. Weddington Is For 'Human' Rights

The Rev. and Mrs. Doyle Ragle, left and far right, met their daughter, Mrs. Sarah Weddington, state representative from Austin, in Canyon Tuesday. Mrs. Weddington was in Amarillo for a political event and came to Canyon to meet with old friends. She attended two years of junior high and two years of high school in Canyon.

Sarah Weddington is definitely wrapped up in the women's rights movement, but she views as a direct result of her involvement in that realm the realization of equality for all humans.

Mrs. Weddington is from Austin, but her fame as a state legislator has spread even to the Panhandle primarily on the winds of rising controversy surrounding abortion.

The controversial state representative visited in Canyon Monday afternoon, a return to a city she says she has fond memories of.

A native of Abilene, Mrs. Weddington came to Canyon with her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Doyle Ragle, back in the late 1950s and attended two years of school at Canyon Junior High and two years at Canyon High School while her father pastored the First United Methodist Church here.

During a brief afternoon visit Monday, she renewed old acquaintances at an informal reception at the Methodist Student Center at West Texas State University.

She was in the Panhandle to help a new Women's Political Caucus get off the ground.

Women's rights have been a major concern of Mrs. Weddington since she graduated from the University of Texas Law School in 1967. Her interest in the issues facing women was whetted shortly after her graduation, when she was involved in a research project for the American Bar Association. She and a fellow woman attorney were approached at that time by several women who asked her to examine the Texas statute on abortion.

"We said 'yeh, it's unconstitutional,'" she said, "but we never believed it would get to the Supreme Court."

Get to the Supreme Court it did and the nation's highest court struck down Texas' ancient statute and outlined guidelines for abortion legislation. That ruling came this past summer, but between the time Mrs. Weddington first became involved in the issue and her argument before the

Buffs Will Test Lamar

West Texas State University's Buffaloes, smarting from three consecutive losses, hope to get back to their winning football ways at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Beaumont against the Lamar University Cardinals.

In addition to their present season losing streak, the Buffaloes will be after their first victory over Lamar in Beaumont. The Cardinals have defeated West Texas State in the only two games played by the teams in Cardinal Stadium.

Lamar won in 1965, 21-14, and in 1970, 33-28. West Texas State has won all three games played in Canyon — 45-7 in 1968, 14-6 in 1971 and 35-12 in 1972.

West Texas State opened its season with a 13-10 victory over Drake, a team which took advantage of nine Lamar fumbles last week for a 24-10 decision at Des Moines. Lamar passed for 268 yards in that contest.

Although Buffalo coach Gene Mayfield is concerned about the Lamar running game, it is the passing phase of the Cardinal attack which most worries him. It was passing by Tulsa and North Texas State which sent the Buffaloes to 48-3 and 32-15 losses. The Buffs fell, 21-14, to Northern Illinois last week in Frank Kimbrough Stadium.

Besides Lamar, Mayfield has worries of his own about the physical condition of the Buffalo squad. The injury list continued to grow Saturday night when senior safety Daryl Carr was taken out of the game in the third quarter with a knee injury and tailback Rick Schleider went out with a head injury in the same quarter.

Carr will miss the Lamar game and will probably be out of action from three to four weeks, at best. Schleider could play against Lamar, but his status early in the week is questionable.

Tailbacks Billy Pritchett and Cole Fraley, who were injured against Tulsa, should be ready for at least limited action Saturday night. Pritchett was in several plays against Northern Illinois.

Wingback Mickey Matthews, starter in the first two games, is still out with a knee injury. Linebacker Steve Rogers, who started in the season opener, is out with a broken arm. Nose guard Ben Bentley is still slowed with a deep thigh bruise which kept him out of the Northern Illinois game.

Like West Texas, Lamar has a 1-3 record. New Mexico State downed the Cardinals, 24-7, in the season opener for Lamar. Coach Vernon Glass' Cardinals defeated Howard Payne College, 21-17, but fell to McNeese State, 20-17, before being beaten last week by Drake.

The Cardinals depend upon the throwing of quarterback Bobby Flores, who has hit on 32 of 65 passes for 327 yards and one touchdown. Reserve signal-caller Ricard Rafes has nine completions in 25 attempts for 224 yards and two scores.

Tailback Ronnie Melancon leads the Cardinals in rushing with 154 yards on 45 carries.

With many of their running backs injured, the Buffaloes will probably depend a great deal upon the throwing arm of junior college transfer Don Nava.

The 6-0, 185-pounder has completed .506 per cent of his passes this fall — hitting on 39 of 79 attempts for 559 yards and one touchdown. Tight end Merced Solis has been the principal receiver with 17 catches for 274 yards.

Elwood P. Dowd, portrayed by Verne Dewees (right) is having his trouble convincing sister Veta (Judy Batenhorst) and a skeptical Duane Wilson (David Anderson) that it's not the air but a rabbit he's talking to in "Harvey," scheduled for performance Oct. 15-18 at Canyon High School.

City Committee Named To Negotiate Contract

Canyon city commissioners appointed without comment Monday night a committee of two councilmen to meet with two Randall county commissioners to negotiate a contract for services the governmental entities share.

Mayor Manly Bryan, after reading a letter from County Judge Woody Pond informing the commission that the county has appointed such a committee, named himself and Jim Christopher to meet with Commissioners Paul Lindsey and John Fulgenzi on the contract.

The mayor said the first negotiation session will probably be after the next two weeks.

The county took action last week to appoint a committee, breaking several months of icy silence on the subject which was originally broached last spring with the issuance by City Manager George Loudder of a study indicating the city is paying more for county services than it is receiving.

Currently, the city and county provide each other various services on a non-paying basis.

A contract proposed by Loudder would have each entity pay the other for services used. The services involved are fire service provided by city to county, dump ground service provided city to county, library service provided by city to county, jail facilities provided by county to city and communication facilities provided by county to city.

Lindsey during last week's commissioner's court session termed Loudder's contract "unworkable."

In other business Monday night, commissioners approved a plan for about 5 acres of development land in the Hidden Valley addition in south Canyon. Their approval was contingent, however, on developer Aubrey Crossland raising the level of the land in the area by 18 inches since it is in the intermediate flood plain.

A certified engineer's report is to be presented ensuring the commission that the land has been filled to that level before a building permit may be issued.

In connection with Crossland's request for platting, commissioners discussed at length the location of sewer lines to the platted property.

The location of the proposed lines, which would be on city property fronting the street on land now in yards of several local residents, was protested by several of the landowners, including City Commissioner Willis Harrison in a letter to the planning and zoning commission.

The planning and zoning commission has recommended city commissioners approve the plat as long as Crossland bears the cost of installing the sewer lines and returning the property to its original condition.

Harrison voted Monday night to approve the plat.

The board also accepted the resignation of Benny Cooper from the planning and zoning commission. Four vacancies will exist on that commission by the first of the year and the commission discussed briefly replacements for M. B. Sims, Clarence Thompson and Ken Olsen.

Loudder announced that a committee examining a recent rate request by Pioneer Natural Gas Co. will meet tonight in Lubbock. He and J. Pat Stephens will attend the meeting. Loudder said he expects to present some action to the commission at their next meeting.

Commissioners were also enthusiastic in hearing that the sales tax check returned to the city for the second quarter of 1973 was $21,972 or 30 per cent more than the check for the same period in 1972.

"That's a good sign," Bryan said. "But, where did it come from?"

Loudder noted that inflation caused some of the rise, but said much of the increase could be attributed to increased retail business in Canyon.

Architects Show Plans For Building

Representatives of HD&R architectural and engineering firm were to present schematic drawings to Canyon city commissioners Wednesday afternoon before working up more detailed drawings of a proposed civic center.

The representatives were in Canyon two days showing the schematics to various departments in the city, including the fire department, water and sewer department and the library board.

City Manager George Loudder said commissioners were expected to take no action during their Wednesday session on the drawings, but were expected to give some guidance on location of various functions in the large L-shaped civic center building.

"I can see some major changes in it," Loudder said Tuesday. "I'm very pleased with the general way they go together."

The schematics call for the location of the library on the ground floor rather than on the second level as originally proposed.

They also call for a large amount of space on the second floor for expansion in the future. Only offices to be initially constructed on the second level are for the city manager and his secretary and for the city commission.

The police department, library and other administrative offices will be located on the ground level.

CommunityEducation Okayed For Schools

A program to offer the kinds of courses Canyon residents would like to take — from woodworking to sewing — was approved for implementation Tuesday night by the Canyon School Board.

Implicit in their acceptance was acceptance of a $6000 grant from Texas A&M University to partially fund the program over a three-year period.

Dr. Ken Hart, Canyon schools director of vocational education, presented the program to the board, saying courses could be tailored to meet community needs not just in high school level courses but in such things as small engine repair, arts and crafts, and recreation and sports.

Terming the program "community education," Hart said the program would help bring the school and community closer together, help make fuller use of school facilities, and give various citizens a chance to acquire a skill in a short period of time.

Each course offered under the program would be tailored to meet a community need or interest and a small tuition fee would be charged.

The courses would be 8 to 10 weeks in length.

Also included in the program would be the capability of offering, if needed, courses to help persons receive a high school diploma or the equivalent.

Initially, several board members viewed the proposal with some reservation.

Dr. Dudley Moore, for example, said he would not favor implementation of a program which would be redundant or which would compete with similar programs offered at West Texas State University, Amarillo College or Texas State Technical Institute.

"It would not be our intent to go into competition with anybody," Supt. Jerry Jacobs said. "We think there are several areas of need."

Jacobs said needs would be surveyed through the news media and through other polling methods to see what kinds of courses might be offered.

The program is expected to go into effect with the spring school term.

In other business Tuesday, the board heard a presentation on the operation of Canyon High School from a panel of eight faculty and staff members.

While the panelists generally reviewed the mechanics of school life, they all agreed on one general statement — Canyon High doesn't have a discipline problem.

Mrs. Lanelle Hagemeier, an art teacher at the school, said she believes no teachers have discipline problems. Other panelists voiced the same view.

Horn Recital Set Sunday

David G. Ritter, assistant professor of music at West Texas State University, will be featured in a trumpet recital at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Ritter's performance is the second in the fall series of faculty recitals in the Branding Iron Theatre of the Fine Arts Building on the Canyon campus. The recital is free to the public.

He will be accompanied on piano by Nancy Matesky, also a member of the WTSU music faculty.

CofC Breakfast Is Today

Another of the quarterly Canyon Chamber of Commerce breakfasts for members and guests will be at 6:30 a.m. today in the community center.

The physicians of Neblett Hospital are sponsoring the breakfast, which will spotlight the Canyon public schools and West Texas State University.

The breakfast is free to members.

No formal program is planned for the breakfast, but representatives of the local schools and WTSU are expected to make brief speeches (usually not more than 2 minutes in length) about their programs.

The menu includes eggs, bacon and biscuits along with juice and coffee.

John Childs, a director of the chamber, will be emcee for the program.

Door prizes of $25 and $15 will be given away.

The breakfast is scheduled to end at 7:50 a.m.

FHA Names New Officers

New officers were recently elected for the Canyon Junior High School Future Homemaker's Association.

In a recent meeting, the 52-member organization elected Barbara Oliver as its president.

The five vice-presidents elected were Susan Bonifield, Melinda Jones, Kim Thompson, Laura Dillard and Leslie Thomas.

Other officers elected include Sharon Lindeman, publicity chairman; Sheree Turner, recording secretary; Emma Durgdorf, treasurer; Jayne Detton, historian; Tammy Blewett, parliamentarian, and Cindy Wilson, reporter.

Palisades Palaver

Band Parents Supper Fri.

By MILDRED TURNER

Hi:

TROYCE, IT'S GOOD to be back on the map. Some people ignored, threatened and practically stoned me, but now everyone is on good terms again and am getting a few phone calls each week.

THE CANYON BAND Parents announce that they are sponsoring a spaghetti supper on Oct. 5 in the Canyon High cafeteria beginning at 5 p.m. The menu: spaghetti with meat sauce, lettuce with dressing, bread, choice of cake or pie, tea or coffee. Tickets are $1 for students, $1.50 for adults. There will be a $5 prize each band, sixth through high school, for the student selling the largest total sum of tickets. Coronation of the Homecoming Queen will be a part of the excitement, climaxed by the game between Pampa and Canyon. Don't miss this event. Mark your calendar.

THE PALISADES HOME Demonstration Club met Sept. 27 at the Palisades Church for a covered dish luncheon. Nell Moore and June Hooker acted as hostesses. You know what happens when a group of ladies and a laden table of food get together. It was a little like playing "fruit basket turn over" as a few of us ate at one table, ended up at another (so the first or second table would never really know all the truth!) It was fun as Nell gave expression to:

My Get Up And Go
Has Got Up And Went

How do I know. . .
My youth is all spent?
Well, my get up and go
Has got up and went.
But in spite of it all;
I am able to grin. . .
When I think of where
My get up has been.

Old age is golden. . .
So I've heard it said
But sometimes I wonder
As I get into bed. . .
With my ears in a drawer
My teeth in a cup,
My eyes on the table
Until I wake up.

'Ere sleep dims my eyes
I say to myself. . .
Is there anything else
I should have laid on the shelf?
I am happy to say as I close my door
That my friends are the same
Only perhaps more.

When I was young. . .
My slippers were red,
I could kick up my heels
Right over my head!
When I grew older. . .
My slippers were blue,
But still I could dance
The whole night through.

Now that I am old. . .
My slippers are black,
I walk to the store. . .
And puff myself back.
The reason I know
My youth is all spent,
My get up and go
Has got up and went!

I really don't mind. . .
When I think with a grin;
Of all the grand places
My get up has been.
Since I've retired. . .
From life's competition
I busy myself. . .
With complete repetition

I get up each morning
And dust off my wits;
Pick up the paper
And read the obits. . .
If my name is missing,
I know I'm not dead,
So I eat a good breakfast
And go back to bed!

NELL'S REALLY A young person but she may have observed from others. She can sure give expression!

MUCH LATER, LEAVING the food and folly we gathered in around the piano where Jo Delle Walker played the piano, Marcella Carlile led us in a number of hymns, followed by Becky Hall's program on "Your Values." This was focusing on management of the family. We all appreciated this program very much and I am sure each one is still working on, and revising our values, in our personal lives and homes. You ladies really missed a fun day if you did not attend.

MR. AND MRS. Bob McClendon have a new baby girl, born Saturday morning in the Neblett Hospital. She weighed 7 lbs. 1 oz.; 21 inches long. Her name is Roberta Christine. Other children in the family are Sherry, a seventh grader, Danny a fourth grader, and John Clark, three. I'm sure little R.C. will not lack attention!

I AM LIKE the little old lady who said she was willing to correct her mistakes (if she had any!). So, recently I did not spell Jairrel Moore's name right. Everytime I spell it differently! Also, in the poem about District One in the verse about the 4-H'ers the word is "guide" instead of "quiet."

I APPRECIATE THOSE who go ahead and give the news to Janet or Sheree if I am not here. I can always call you back if I have questions. Also, if your subscription has run out, call me and I'll get you all fixed up. I called Myrtle Forster, Dora Waldrop and Elizabeth Timmons this week so if you will call me this week let us know how you are.

THE SEITZ'S FAMILY left for France Thursday the 20th about 1 p.m. Gerald got six free tickets with all expenses paid from the Herzfeld's Beauty Supplies because he sold a certain amount of merchandise. Gerald, Nadine, Chris, Jerry, Kenny and Sheri left Amarillo on TWA and flew to New York. In New York they saw the Statue of Liberty, Empire State Building and China Town. From New York they got aboard BOAC Airline and arrived in Nice about 3:30 p.m. They took a bus to Monte Carlo which is the main city of the independent province of Monaco. They stayed at the Hotel Deparis. In four days they drove over 600 miles touring. Some of the tours they saw were the Monte Carlo Beach, Nice, Mediterranean Sea, Grasse, and the Alps, and the Prince's Palace in Monaco.

IN ITALY THEY went shopping three times in San Reno. They returned Saturday about 4 p.m.

I BET THAT was a grand trip. Would like to have been a mouse in the luggage!

SEE YOU NEXT week.

We don't believe it should take big money
to make big money.
Daddy Warbucks is a myth.
A myth that's vanishing along with diamond stickpins. And $10 cigars.
The same goes for the idea that it takes a lot of money to make a lot of money.
Big interest rates no longer belong exclusively to the guys with big money.
Because, at First Nationl Bank in Canyon the small investor can find a common interest with the big investor-the interest on Top Dollar Certificates of Deposit.
Our regular savings programs, earns as much money as it legally can, and you can withdraw it on a moment's notice.
First National Bank, Canyon, can also get the ball rolling on a personal loan, a new checking account, a Master Charge Card.
Or he can help straighten out almost any other budget problem. So getting together with First National Bank, Canyon, might prove richly rewarding.
Federal law and regulation prohibits the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate.

WT Cross-Country Team To Run In OSU Event

The young West Texas State University cross country team will face another strong field at the Oklahoma State University Jamboree Saturday morning in Stillwater, Okla.

Coach Bob Kitchens said a strong field, made up of several Big Eight Conference schools and other major universities, is entered.

While Kitchens' squad has not fared well in its opening two meets, the Buffalo coach has some reasons for looking forward to a better year.

"Our team is greatly improved over the team of a year ago, at this same time period," said Kitchens. "But teams such as Texas Tech, Wayland Baptist College and Lubbock Christian College have made even greater strides forward."

The Buffaloes didn't finish enough runners in their opening meet at Wayland Baptist College in Plainview to score points. Last week, at the LCC meet in Lubbock the Buffaloes were fourth behind Texas Tech, Wayland and LCC.

Comparing times through two meets from a year ago, however, gives reason for a bright future. Jim Hogan, who placed eighth in the Missouri Valley Conference cross country meet, had run only 22:16 for four miles after two meets last fall. Larry Lane, sophomore from Buffalo, N.Y., has already run 21:27 this season.

Lindsey Snodgrass, sophomore from Dell City, has run 21:43 and is the number two Buffalo runner. Lane, who held the number two position last fall, was injured early in 1972 and had not run the full four miles in a meet after two meets.

Hereford freshman Jim Henson has run 23:20 this fall. Snodgrass, who was the number three man last year, had run only 24:20 after two meets in 1972. Dave Karila of Thunder Bay, Ontario, has a 22:58 time to his credit this year. Wally Nowicki, who ran number four last year, had run 24:40.

Floydada's Jay Jones ran 24:40 last week at Lubbock. Robert McElroy, 1972 fifth man, had only a 26:05 time after two meets.

The Buffaloes compete again Oct. 13 in the Eastern New Mexico University Invitational, before hosting their own invitational meet Oct. 20.

8th Grade White Downed By 24-14

The Canyon 8th grade white team was downed by the Perryton junior high team last week by a score of 24-14.

Robert Scott made the scoring plays for the 8th graders, running one for 10 yards, another for 85 yards and an extra point.

The district record for the white team is now at 1-2 and they meet Hereford LaPlata in Canyon this afternoon.

Outstanding awards went to Tim May as offensive lineman, Scott as offensive back, Stan Cranmer as defensive lineman, and Steve Zanchettin as defensive back. Scott was named outstanding player of the game. He was also credited with a fumble recovery.

Winner Announced In Women's Club Outdoor Contest

Don Dolle of the Soil Conservation Service assisted in the judging of the Heritage Women's Club "Outdoor Learning Area" contest sponsored by the club's Conservation Chairman, Mrs. Adrienne Pennington.

Mr. Dolle and Mrs. Pennington selected the backyard of Mrs. Portia Tillinghast, 2625 15th Ave., as having the club's most outstanding Outdoor Learning Area.

Mrs. Tillinghast had included in her area a pet snake, mice, tadpoles in various stages of development, fossils, a home-built bird feeder, and a garden. She also has an area that her children use for painting rocks and other instructional activities.

Second place in the contest went to Mrs. Ellen Matney, 2329 14th Ave.

Don Dolle and Mrs. Portia Tillinghast holding a snake that is a part of the first place Outdoor Learning Area Contest sponsored by the Heritage Women's Club.

News Brief

In 1969 when the "Nursing Needs and Resources Study" for the Panhandle region was completed, it projected that by the third year of the Baccalaureate nursing program at West Texas State University, the enrollment would be approximately 240.

Final enrollment figures this week showed a total of 400 nursing majors.

Singers Due At Grace Baptist

Following the morning services, there will be a covered dish luncheon in the fellowship hall of the church. The Believers will be present at the luncheon and will visit with the people.

Richard Korsmo, pastor of the church extends an invitation to the public to attend services and the luncheon. "They're real good singers, and sing good old time gospel music," he said.

The group will also give testimony and will be at the church all day Sunday.

The Believers, a quartet from Amarillo, will be singing at the morning services, beginning at 11 a.m. and the evening services, beginning at 7 p.m., of the Grace Baptist Church Sunday.

Canyon High Juniors To Launch Magazine-Selling Campaign

The 238-member junior class at Canyon High School is preparing to launch a magazine-selling campaign next week that will be their largest fund-raising drive of the year.

The door-to-door campaign begins Wednesday, and will continue through Oct. 24. Junior officers have set $10,000 as their goal for the two-week selling drive.

Proceeds from the sales will go toward financing the junior-senior prom, scheduled later this year. Profits will also be used by the class to fund activities during their senior year, including the purchase of a senior gift.

All major magazines except Reader's Digest will be available at special discount prices, according to Charlyne Moulton, vice-president of the junior class.

CHS students will receive 40 per cent of the profits on all subscription sales on listed magazines and 15 percent on unlisted publications, she said. After 5,000 sales, the class will receive 50 percent profit on each subscription sold.

The whole junior class will be mobilized for the project, Miss Moulton said. Teams representing the junior homerooms have already been formed, she added.

The junior who sells the most subscriptions will be the winner of a television or stereo, Miss Moulton said.

Persons not contacted by a class representative who want to purchase a subscription may do so by calling the main number at the high school, she said.

WT Frosh Play Here

West Texas State University's undefeated Freshman football team plays its only home game of the season at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Frank Kimbrough Memorial Stadium and the opponent was the only team to defeat the Baby Buffaloes in 1972.

Northeastern Oklahoma A&M Junior College from Miami, Okla., handed the Baby Buffaloes a 21-13 defeat last fall and brings a 4-1 record into the Saturday clash.

Coach Ronnie Mankin's Baby Buffaloes have won their only two games this fall — beating Cisco Junior College, 16-0; and halting the University of Texas at El Paso Junior Varsity, 32-12, last week.

The Golden Norsemen of coach Ruben Berry have defeated Haskell Junior College, 7-0; Wichita State Junior Varsity, 46-17; Eastern Arizona Junior College, 48-0; and Indian Hills Junior College, 28-26. Tyler Junior College edged A&M, 21-7.

Leading the Golden Norsemen is Tulsa sophomore David Plunkett, a 6-1, 195-pound sophomore. He has completed 34 of 70 passes for eight touchdowns.

"Our rushing and scoring has been balanced because we have great depth at the running back and receiver positions," said Berry.

Tailback James Williams holds a 4.9 per yard average. Fullback Jerry Herrod is averaging 6.3 yards per carry and Dumas freshman Duane Sisson is averaging 4.2 yards per carry as the alternate tailback.

Flanker Lee Whiteley has caught 17 passes for 189 yards and three touchdowns. To show the great balance among the A&M players, third team fullback Ron Morgan leads the team in scoring with 24 points.

The Baby Buffs will enter Saturday's game with several players suffering from injuries.

Tailback Donald Jackson of Houston rushed for 166 yards against Cisco, but missed the UT-El Paso clash with an injured foot. Bryan Carr, younger brother of Buffalo varsity safety Daryl Carr, has an injured ankle, but will probably start at tailback.

Against Cisco, Carr was the quarterback. He moved to tailback and carried 19 times for 141 yards against UT-El Paso.

Hereford fullback Frank Harris, who has been sharing duties at that position with Tucumcari's Jeff Nunn, has an injured knee and may miss Saturday's contest. Nunn will start at the other running back position.

The quarterback will probably be Mike McVay from Beaver, Okla.

Offensive line starters will probably be tight end Keith Oxley of Amarillo, split end Clifford Mann of Fort Worth, tackles Roy Markham of Canyon and Clifford Laws of Tahoka, guards Greg Whetstone of Lawton, Okla., and Mike Fishbeck of Orange and center Gary Trosper of Dumas.

President, Winter told the audience, Dr. James Cornette paid for all formal receptions and other university-related functions from his own finances. Recently, Dr. Lloyd Watkins "picked up the tab" when he entertained a group of officials from Drake University, Winter said.

In an attempt to make WTSU "truly the University of the Golden Spread," Winter said, an institution-wide Speaker's Bureau has been formed for providing to various civic clubs, schools and other groups, the speaking services of university personnel. Speaking on a variety of subjects, faculty members are being asked to donate their services for the Bureau without monetary compensation, he said.

A tentative $10,000 will be needed for a legislative assistant to represent the University in Austin, and another $7500 for printing, telephone and travel expenses, Winter said.

Recruitment of students in the next year will be a crucial matter for the University since the enrollment figures for the 1974 summer and fall sessions will be used to determine the amount of money to be allotted to WTSU by the state legislature over the next two years, Winter said.

Several committees consisting of faculty, students and staff have been created by President Watkins for the purpose of recruitment, Winter said.

One committee, headed by Dr. Paige Carruth, vice president of student affairs at WTSU, has devised a program under which teams of WT students will be visiting 70 Panhandle cities between now and Nov. 23 to "spread the gospel" to area high school students about the advantages of WTSU.

On Nov. 17, the university will sponsor "Junior College Day," he said. Students attending the seven area junior colleges will be treated to a free WT football game and an evening of dancing and entertainment in the Activities Center, Winter said.

The school will host a similar event for students of the 70 area high schools on Nov. 24, he said.

On Tuesday, a caravan of "deans, faculty members and students," will be travelling to Hereford to "spread the word" about WTSU to the people of that area, Winter said.

As part of a vigorous fund raising drive, the university will seek out 100 persons in the area to comprise a "President's Council," consisting of those who contribute $500 to the university for the next three years.

A President's Club will include those who donate $100 to the university for the next three years. Those who contribute in varying amounts under $100 over the next three years will be acknowledged as Friends of the President, Winter said.

University benefactors will be informed of all events at the school through a presidential newsletter, and will be encouraged to come to the campus "as often as possible," Winter said.

Students at WTSU are a valuable economic asset to the city of Canyon, Winter told local residents. An undergraduate student "is worth about $2,600" to the city, and a graduate student pumps about $3,500 into the economy of the city, he said.

With average incomes of about $12,500 each, WTSU faculty members also render a financial boost to the city, as do the 650 supporting employees at the school, he said.

Since WTSU serves all of the areas north of Lubbock, it can truly be called "the University of the Golden Spread," he said.

"The main thing we need to do now is to tell people about what we've got here," Winter said.

Winter, who has been attributed with bringing a half-billion dollars in industry to Amarillo while director of the Board of City Development there, said that "selling WTSU to the people of the Panhandle is a lot like selling industry on the area."

"I knew that if I could get representatives of industry to Amarillo and show them the city, two out of three times I could convince them to locate there. And it's the same way with WT. If we can bring students and their parents here to just see our facilities and meet our faculty, then the school will sell itself."

Supreme Court, she was becoming more involved in women's rights.

Her arguments against a statute on abortion center away from the moral or religious aspects of the issue and focus on the legal or ethical problems.

No one, she says, can really tell when a human being becomes a human being.

"It reminds me of the old leap of faith," she said. "There are some things nobody can convince you of."

The Texas law on abortion dated back to the late 1800s and provided that it was not a crime for a woman to abort herself.

Murder in the Texas law was defined, she said, as the killing of one who has been born.

In her argument before the Supreme Court, Mrs. Weddington said she had to prove that abortion was so personal a matter that the state had no right to control it.

The court agreed, citing numerous precedents, but said that during the first two trimesters of pregnancy the pregnant woman should be unregulated in her desires as to abortion. In the final trimester, the court ruled, the state could regulate the matter.

"I'd be the first to admit it's far better to prevent pregnancy," Mrs. Weddington said. "But, no birth control method is 100 per cent effective."

She said she "can understand and respect the opinion of those who believe it is murder and believe they should abide by their beliefs. I think that those who don't believe that should be allowed to make their own decision."

She sees the court ruling as a blow for human liberty, not just another phase in women's rights.

"When people think of women's lib they think of a very stereotyped abrasive person," she said. "To me everyone should have all the options to be whatever they're able to be."

The current Faculty Council, he said, was originally formed to function as a liaison group between the faculty and administration. His committee's proposal would give the faculty power in determining academic matters, and policies such as faculty tenure and promotion.

Brief discussion prevailed at Monday's meeting on the type of representation which would be provided in the proposal. Several members expressed interest in a constitution calling for establishment of a Faculty Senate with the faculty at large making up a Faculty Assembly.

It was also suggested that representative of the Faculty Council be asked to join with the AAUP when a final constitution is drafted for proposal.

In other business, the members discussed the working of various committees recently appointed by Dr. Lloyd Watkins, president of WTSU.

Watkins recently appointed several main committees — on recruiting, on tenure, on promotion, on academic requirements and a committee on committees.

The AAUP has two representatives attending each of the committee sessions.

AAUP President John Cranston told the members his attendance at the recruitment committee meetings have indicated Watkins is open to all ideas and ready to implement programs to boost student enrollment.

day and he said statements should be mailed late this week and received by taxpayers early next week.

Since the tax roll has not arrived for either city or school district, Kuykendall estimated that the roll for the city will total about $315,000. The roll for the school district is expected to total about $1.15 million.

Last year, the city tax roll totalled $300,000. The school roll totalled $1.072 million last year.

A 3 per cent discount is also available during October for taxpayers who pay their taxes. No discounts are available after October, but penalty payments begin after Jan. 31 at the rate of about 1½ per cent per month.

Payment of taxes may be made by mail to both offices, and Kuykendall and Mrs. Bruse stressed that persons paying in person at the tax offices should bring their tax statements with them.

quarterly chamber breakfast. Today's breakfast was to begin at 6:30 a.m. and end at 7:50 a.m. at the community center.

Sponsors for the breakfast are the physicians of Neblett Clinic.

To be featured at the breakfast are the Canyon schools and West Texas State University and representatives from each school were expected to make brief talks.

Board members were also formally informed that the chamber banquet will be Jan. 26 at the university cafeteria with WTSU President Lloyd I. Watkins as featured speaker.

Watkins, new president of the university, came to Canyon in early August from Iowa.

Board Member Dr. Charles Smallwood announced that the formal opening of the Nance Ranch at West Texas State will be Oct. 20.

An open house is scheduled from 3 to 4 p.m. with a program from 4 to 5 p.m. and then a barbecue dinner. Attendance is by invitation.

The Nance Ranch was recently donated to the university for use in the School of Agriculture, which Dr. Smallwood heads.

Raillard also informed the board that he has been asked to serve on a committee to meet with the mayors, the county judges and the chamber presidents of Amarillo and Canyon to appoint another citizens committee to study the proposed annexation of 11 sections of land in north Randall County by the Amarillo School District.

Raillard said no time for a meeting has yet been set.

The Amarillo chamber of commerce proposed last week the formation of the committee to name a committee of objective citizens to review Amarillo's proposal.

Canyon School Board members have been reluctant to allow the Amarillo board to annex the property.

Canyon Woman Is Co-Author Of Article

Mrs. Pollyanna B. Hughes of Canyon, associate professor in the Social Sciences Department at Amarillo College, is co-author of an article in the current issue of the East Texas Historical Association Journal.

Her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Harrison of Big Spring, collaborated on the work which is entitled, "Charles A. Culberson: Not a Shadow of Hogg."

Culberson's governorship of Texas, 1895 to 1899, has previously been dismissed by historians with statements to the effect that he only continued reform policies instituted by his predecessor, James Stephen Hogg. The present article attempts to prove that Culberson as governor operated independently of Hogg.

Both Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Harrison were reared in Jefferson, Texas, where Culberson also grew up.

Parish Gathering A Success

By REBA RAEF

HELLO AGAIN, FROM Umbarger. My, isn't this beautiful fall weather nice? What with the beet harvest underway and the milo about ready to cut and the last of the gardens to can or freeze, we are a busy little community.

THE COVERED DISH supper and bingo party, held last Sunday in St. Mary's parish hall, was well attended. There was so much good food there, it was hard to decide what to try. After the supper, games of Bingo were enjoyed by the younger members as well as the older members of the parish. We hope it won't be too long before we have another such parish gathering.

MRS. JOHN HOMFELD was honored with a "pink and blue" shower last Sunday afternoon, in the home of Dale Bolte. Cancer Society Lays Program

Plans and activities for the new year were outlined and discussed recently when members of the board of the Randall County Unit of the American Cancer Society met at the Village Restaurant for a luncheon.

Allene J. Stovall presided during the business session and named standing committee chairmen. They are, education, Saundra J. Meek; medical, Dr. Leta Boswell; service, Jerry LaGrone; publicity, Irma Money; schools, Dr. T. Paige Carruth. A crusade chairman is to be named at a later date.

Miss Meek gave as her aim a year-round program which will reach as many persons as possible. She will be assisted by Mrs. Ronald C. Thomason, women's clubs; Mrs. Becky Hall, home demonstration and 4-H clubs, and the principals of all the schools in Randall County. Mary Lou Farnum will present the program in West Texas State University health and physical education classes and in the women's dormitories.

Thomas D. MacOwan, vice-president, will speak to the faculties of the four schools when they meet for in-service training on Feb. 4. He plans to bring a mobile unit to Canyon where it will be placed at various locations at the schools, West Texas State, and in town, in order to inform the largest number of persons.

Dr. Boswell will be in charge of a special medical program to be given in conjunction with a meal.

Members were encouraged to invite guests to the meetings of the Board this year. Services offered by the local unit include bandages, hospital beds and transportation of patients to and from treatment centers. Jerry LaGrone is service chairman.

John Altis, field representative for the American Cancer Society, announced that a combined State Department of Health and Parent-Teacher Association meeting will convene here, Nov. 3. He requested that the Randall County Board set up a booth at the meeting, and that members be at the booth to give information to interested persons at that time.

Dr. Carruth reported on the state meeting held in Houston, Aug. 22-23. Tom Landry, coach of the Dallas Cowboys, headed the state effort, and he stressed early diagnosis in order to effect cures.

The Randall County Unit was re-chartered with a certificate. The Unit was awarded the Golden Achievement Award for over-reaching their goal in the annual crusade. Dave Rindlisbacher

New WTSU Art Prof A Rare Spirit In Modern Art World

By ANN MELIN

One might say that Dave Rindlisbacher, new art instructor at West Texas State University, is a rebel against the rebels.

Holding fast to his religious beliefs as well as his acceptance of traditional values in art, the 26-year-old art professor is something of an anomaly in a current art world that has rejected both the Christian ethic as well as many of the long-held fundamentals of artistic design.

With the same missionary zeal that prompted his Mormon ancestors to cross a continent to carve a Zion in the Great Salt Lake Region, Rindlisbacher is attempting in his work to bridge the awesome gap that has come between religion and art in modern times.

An immense gulf of time separates the gothic cathedrals, erected in exultation of a Supreme Being, from the flashy Campbell's tomato soup can that put creator Andy Warhol in the vanguard of a new pop art wave several years ago. And between the two creations, according to Rindlisbacher, artists seem to have lost their souls.

In an attempt to restore the unity of art and religion that he says has been lost in a contemporary trend of nihilism, Rindlisbacher participated in a movement at Brigham Young University, the purpose of which was to discover a distinctive "Mormon art."

Rindlisbacher feels close to his Mormon heritage, he said. His great-grandmother came to Utah on the first transcontinental railroad in the 1860's. One of his ancestors made the gruelling journey from Missouri to the Great Salt Lake Region while working with a handcar company.

Converts to Mormonism, Rindlisbacher's forbears worked with their leader, Brigham Young, in "carving out a promised land from a wilderness," Rindlisbacher said.

A native of Payson, Utah, the young artist said he has his roots "in the earth." The son of a dairy farmer in the Great Salt Lake region, Rindlisbacher says he was raised with the same stern "work ethic" as many of his new Panhandle students.

It was a culture in which art "was a good avocation, but not a good vocation," Rindlisbacher said. People who understand work in terms of planting, watching things grow, and harvesting, he says, often find the artistic experience a bit hard to grasp.

"But at West Texas, I'm teaching my students that to be an artist requires the same strenuous work and sweat as it takes to yield a good crop," he said.

Rindlisbacher finds many aspects of the Texas Panhandle reminiscent of his Utah home. The people of both regions are not far removed from their pioneer heritage. And both peoples seem to be deeply religious folk, he said.

"In Utah, I was surrounded by towering mountains that made me feel small and humble. Here in the Panhandle, these broad, flat plains evoke that same feeling of being dwarfed by your surroundings. Perhaps that's why both the people of this country and those of Utah have deep religious convictions. Perhaps it springs from their struggle to cultivate a hard land."

Rindlisbacher received his Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from Brigham Young, and later a Master of Fine Arts degree from the same institution. The artist also attempted study at several other major university art schools, but found that the mood in these were generally the same. The focus of the curriculum in the schools was so avante-garde, so entrenched in a "do-your-own-thing" philosophy, that Rindlisbacher, whose interest lies in figurative drawing and solid draftsmanship, felt out of place.

There are a lot of current trends in art, none of which seem to please Rindlisbacher.

One trend, he said, is "intellectualized" art in which the artist "sets down symbols so personal they communicate little beyond abstract principles of texture and design." Appreciation of this kind of art, Rindlisbacher says, "is a game only intellectuals can play.

"The average viewer looks at these paintings and can find nothing to hold on to," he said.

Of late, artists have been looking back to the past and have resurrected figurative drawing in the ominous shape of "superrealism," Rindlisbacher said. But so far, the movement seems to be producing "cold, analytic Polaroids of the world bearing no hint of the artist manipulating pigment.

"It's figurative painting without heart, without spirit and without an imprint of the artist," he said.

In pursuit of "new for new's sake" one superrealist actually carried the movement to an absurd denouement, Rindlisbacher said. Striving for the ultimate "personal statement in art," the artist began filming himself in the process of severing parts of his body. After sacrificing major portions of his anatomy to his work, the artist finally died, "literally killing himself on canvas," Rindlisbacher said.

Rejecting the unstructured approach to art, Rindlisbacher says that objective, figurative design is actually more challenging than non-objective art.

"With figurative drawing, everyone can be your critic. As soon as a person can identify a familiar object, he can set himself up as judge, whereas in non-objective art, most people are at a loss for an aesthetic on which to base their judgements," he said.

Rindlisbacher also finds much modern art hard to accept since much of it is based on rejection of the Christian ethic.

The young artist said he first realized the power art can wield when serving as handmaiden to religion when, as a boy, he discovered a primitive pictograph while riding in the Utah hills around his home.

"The message the artist intended to convey had long since been lost, but yet the picture evoked such a powerful feeling in me that I got frightened and ran home."

Later, Rindlisbacher said he would make "pilgrimages" to the site of the prehistoric drawing, where he first realized the tremendous impact art can have on man.

And he discerned the same "magical quality" in the primitive art of aborigines he encountered while on a missionary tour of Australia several years ago.

"It's not art for art's sake, but art with great religious overtones," he said of primitive art. "In a tribal society, the artist was regarded as a kind of magician or healer with a supernatural ability to graphically portray the world around him."

Holding that there is no "universal truth in art," Rindlisbacher said that many contemporary artists have abandoned traditional concepts of beauty and design, have done away with any historical or religious framework, and have even gone so far as to "make ugly" the world around them.

He says that accurate drawing is a prerequisite for artists attempting to interpret their sensitivity on canvas. But in many progressive art schools, he said that he saw artists trying to express themselves "without the rudiments of an artistic vocabulary."

One of the reasons he came to WTSU, he said, was that university's "conservative base" in art.

Since coming to the Panhandle he has tried to familiarize himself with its people, its heritage and its art.

Of Western art, the region's homegrown variety, Rindlisbacher says that a lot of what he's seen seems to be "cash art." Lacking a high aesthetic, much of the work in this idiom seems to have been executed "with the dollar sign in mind."

And yet the Panhandle holds rich promise for young artists, he said. Rindlisbacher himself has made a few trips out into the country side with his sketch pad.

Delivering a critical analysis of Western art before one of his classes, his remarks on its seeming deficiency brought forth an outburst from one of his freshman students, a native of the region and an admirer of its art form.

"The boy jumped up and said 'I want to say something and I either have to hit you in the mouth or talk.' He then went on to say that the western paintings made him wish that he lived 100 years ago, that he wished he could go out and find an old hand that still rides the fence. He didn't have the artistic vocabulary yet to express his emotions, yet he felt them strongly.

"I had to apologize and tell the student that perhaps the artist didn't feel these things as strongly as he did. I told him to hold on to those feelings and to invest them in hard work."

"An artist tends to be a sensitive person that draws his inspiration from around him," Rindlisbacher said. Since the dictum "as the arts go, so go the people," still holds true, the young artist says it's important that artists have great integrity.

"An artist anticipates tomorrow in his work and at the same time crystalizes that tomorrow," he said.

Rindlisbacher hopes that the cultural pendulum will be turning soon and artists will "infuse their art with their religion rather than make art their religion."

WT Netters To Vie In OSU Invitational

West Texas State University's tennis team, off to a running start this fall, competes Friday and Saturday in the rugged Oklahoma State University Intercollegiate Doubles Invitational.

Play in the two-day tournament will be doubles only. The Buffaloes of coach David Kent have several outstanding doubles units, but will be competing against some of the better collegiate teams in this section of the nation.

Other teams entered are host Oklahoma State University, Oklahoma City University, Southeastern Oklahoma State and Tulsa University.

Playing number one for West Texas will be seniors Dale Corbin of Wichita Falls and Snyder's John Phillips. They were unbeaten in three matches two weeks ago at the Rocky Mountain Intercollegiate Invitational at Boulder, Colo., beating teams from Colorado, Kansas and the Air Force Academy.

Corbin, playing as an individual, also swept through three matches in the Boulder team tournament. The Buffaloes captured that tournament trophy, beating Colorado, 5-4; Air Force Academy, 9-0; and Kansas, 6-3.

Last week in the Midland Invitational, Corbin and Phillips teamed to defeat Trinity's number one team.

Bill Marsh, senior from Arkansas City, Kan., and Reno, Nev., freshman Steve Johnson will play in the number two position for the Buffaloes. They combined to win the Tri-State Invitational doubles crown over the Labor Day vacation in Amarillo.

Freshmen Brett Hall of Houston and Dana Caledonia of La Jolla, Calif., will form the third Buffalo unit for the Stillwater tourney and freshman Jay Goss of San Angelo will team with St. Louis, Mo., sophomore Gary Randall to form the fourth Buffalo team.

Following the tournament this week in Stillwater, the Buffaloes will take a break in their fall schedule until Nov. 22-25, when they play in the Fort Worth Thanksgiving Tournament.

Two Scout Troops Require A Leader

There is one Brownie Troop, 3rd grade, and one Girl Scout Troop, 5th grade, open for leadership.

Training for leadership is available and there is no need to have a child in Girl Scouts. The only requirement is that one be at least a sophomore in college, or age nineteen.

The troops meet once a week right after school until 5 p.m. and the Girl Scout House can be used for these meetings. A leader is not responsible for transporting the girls from school to the meeting place.

Local attractions make field trips easy and for the older girls, Camp Kiwanis is used for camping out. On field trips, the leader is not expected to man the troop single-handedly.

For further information or to become a troop leader, call Mrs. Ormsby at 655-3478.

PTA Has First Meeting

By TROYCE MULHERIN

GREETINGS:

GENE HOWE'S FIRST PTA meeting of the year found many new faces in attendance. Could say something about the old faces but prefer the word "familiar" much more. Anyway, lot of interested parents came to their school to meet with the faculty and visit in their child(ren)'s room(s). The PTA Executive Committee was briefly introduced. Included in these troductions was Deann Cooper, the new treasurer. The treasurer elected last school semester found it necessary to resign, due to the press of business.

MR. LAWLESS INTRODUCED the faculty, and they in turn introduced their aides and assistants. Our school nurse, Mrs. Deckard, reminded parents that state law requires certain immunizations of students. No immunizations — no schooling. A gentle reminder to parents to make certain their children's immunizations are up to date and duly certified.

This is IMPORTANT.

MONDAY EVENING, OCT. 8, is the night for parents of the youngsters in the afternoon kindergarten class and for parents of students in the fourth through sixth grades to attend the PTA meeting. Starts at seven o'clock. This time enables daddies to have the opportunity to visit the school, and to get home in time for those football games.

A PLEA FOR carpet pieces was sent out. (Need two more area carpets in order to complete lower grades.) Help! Announcement was also made of a special collection drive aimed at obtaining needed audio-visual equipment. This program, Labels for Education, is sponsored by the Campbell Soup Company. In this plan our school will collect labels from Campbell soup cans, and will in turn redeem the labels for specific audio-visual equipment. So, feed the family lots of soup. Remove the labels (preferably before throwing the cans in the trash — you know what's it's like to dig through the trash — ugh) and let the youngster take same to school.

IN FACT, ANY reader, school patron or not, is welcome to participate in this project. Gather your labels together, and call 352-6053 and same will be picked up. Or, same could be mailed to the school at 5108 Pico, Amarillo. It's a worthwhile endeavor — and, you could say the labels come free. Could say that.

SCHOOL WILL BE dismissed at 2:30 on Tuesday, Oct. 9, so our teachers can attend required meetings.

TIME DO FLY — would you believe that the end of the first six weeks of school falls on Oct. 5? Already, yet.

A VERY HAPPY, though belated, birthday to Larry Ray, who became eleven on the 25th. Larry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Ray, and the family celebrated by going to the restaurant of Larry's choice. Mr. and Mrs. Max Thomas and son Cody of Levelland spent the weekend in the Ray home, bringing birthday wishes to Larry. The Rays treated their houseguests to a tour of Palo Duro Canyon as part of the weekend activities.

TIME AGAIN FOR the annual spaghetti supper sponsored by the Canyon Band Parents organization. It's this Friday, Oct. 5, at the high school cafeteria. Serving lines open at five o'clock. Eats include the spaghetti, salad, bread, tea and dessert. Yum yum good eating guaranteed. This day and time were specifically chosen so football fans could enjoy the spaghetti as well as the homecoming game between Pampa and Canyon! Go eat, then go to the game. A Fun Friday.

TICKETS ARE $1 for students and children and $1.50 for adults. Same can be purchased from a band student, or at the door. Get yours from a student preferably, as there is a $5 prize to be awarded to the high seller of tickets in dollar sales in each band division, sixth through high school.

THE NORTHWEST TEXAS Hospital Auxiliary Board of Directors met last week with Raydell Palmer presiding. The board voted to purchase a mammographic X-Ray system for the hospital. This machine is used to identify, (without surgery), suspected lesions. It will be the only machine of its type in this area and will be of great benefit to area women. Users will simply go to the hospital, under their doctor's instructions, undergo the painless test, and go home. No hospitalization needed for the testing. A great service. Thank you, Auxiliary!

ARTS UNLIMITED HELD its annual salad luncheon at the Federation building last week, with Max and Betty Dreasher giving the program. Highlights of such program included creative figure draping and dough art. Everyone in attendance was given a hunk of dough, with instructions to "create!" And, create they did, with the finished product being taken home to cook in the ol' oven a while. Quite a lot of fun. Betty and Max showed several interesting and new crafts, including the new shrink art. About which you will have to ask them. (Doubt seriously this "shrink"ing would work on people, though — sorry dieters.)

A VERY HAPPY and many more to the lovely Gloria Taylor, who birthdayed on the 30th.

AMARILLO AREA COUNCIL met in regular session last Monday. Newly elected delegates, Margaret Ingram and Linda Thomas, represented Gene Howe; as did PTA president Ernestine Harp and delegate Troyce Mulherin.

THE SIXTH GRADE team jointly coached by Bob Paris and Euris Phipps is undefeated after three conference games. Thursday night's game with Coronado ended with a 6-6 tie. Jim Phipps scored the touchdown after a sixty-yard run by Cory Meyers. Sunday's game was won over River Road with a 6-0 score. Jim made it over that line again for the touchdown — the entire team played hard and with Enthusiasm.

TEAM MEMBERS INCLUDE Gene Aduddell, Britt Bostick, Larry Brown, Ken Cates, Kevin Dozier, Perry Foster, Bill Gruhlkey, Brandt Lacy, Mike Martindale, Cory Meyers, Mac McCurry, Danny McGregor, Terry Miller, Kyle Paris, Jim Phipps, Rick Steen and Todd Williams.

PACK 130 CUB Scouts held its first pack meeting of the school year last Thursday at Gene Howe School. Over one hundred people attended. The program started with Tim Carlile and Kenny Nagunst presenting the colors. The Cubmaster, Bill Edwards, and all the new cubs led the group in a catchy tune of "I Like Bananas, Coconuts and Grapes." The new first-year cubs are Gary Evans, Scott Powers, Dewayne Hollis, Russell Schmidt, Jason Bass, David Hamilton, Shayne Sanders, Michael Longhofer, Sam Pender, Chuck Ford and Kevin Wright.

MRS. JUANITA EVANS, Mrs. Bernice Powers and Mrs. Joan Hollis are the den leaders for these boys. New committee men from this den are Mr. William Hamilton and Mr. Frank Ford.

AWARD CEREMONIES WERE the order of the night. Mike Gensler received his Wolf and a Silver Arrow point. Mike Scott was awarded his Bear. Webelo awards were: Tim Stokes — aquanaut, sportsman and showman. Tim Nash — traveler, sportsman and showman. Tim Seth — artist, sportsman and showman. Kent Newcomb — traveler, sportsman and geologist.

TIM SETH, SON of Bill and Pat Seth, received the highest award given in Cub Scouting — the Arrow of Light!

AN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY featuring a rustic wooden bridge representing the Cub Scout trail of adventure was used to graduate eighteen boys into Webelos. A council fire of bear cubs on one side of the bridge, and a council fire of Webelos on the other side symbolized the crossing from bears to the last journey of Cubs down the Webelo trail. The boys were received on the trail by Cubmaster Edwards.

MRS. LOUISE BROMLEY, Mrs. Bettye Stokes, Mrs. Jackie Mayfield and Mrs. Katie Gensler assisted in the ceremony of exchanging the yellow Cub scarf for the plaid Webelo scarf. Pete Solbrig accepted the boys into Webelos. Those boys received were Shannon Edwards, Steve Stokes, Tim Carlile, Duane Dove, Jody Detten, John Hanson, Kenny Nagust, David Bromley, Charlie Cox, Ronnie Kyle, Kelly Mayfield, Jeff Pike, Mike Scott, Randy Whipple, Charles Covalt and Kent Newcomb.

SCOUT MASTER CARL Johnson from Troop 130 received Tim Seth, Tim Stokes, Allan Tomes and Tim Nash into Boy Scouts. The ceremonies were impressive, and all of Pack 130 is looking forward to a rewarding year of Cubbing.

THANKS FOR THE use of the hall. Keep those cards and letters and calls coming in.

WTSU's Caravan To Hereford

A glimpse of college life will be presented Hereford and area high school students and their parents by West Texas State University.

The WTSU Caravan will make its first stop of the new school year at Hereford High School Tuesday night.

The caravan will set up in the cafeteria and be greeting students from 7:30-9 p.m. The West Texas Ex-Students Association chapter in Hereford will provide refreshments.

High school students and their parents from Adrian, Bovina, Farwell, Friona and Vega are invited by Hereford school officials to attend.

WTSU students, faculty and staff will be on hand to answer questions about college life and talk about what West Texas State has to offer.

Deaf Smith County is one of the leading counties in the Texas Panhandle in number of students attending West Texas State.

"The purpose of the caravan is to acquaint the young people and their parents of this area to what the university has to offer," said Dr. Jack Bullock, a mathematics professor who heads the caravan project.

"There will be representatives from each of the five colleges and schools as well as from student life, financial aids, scholarships and other offices," he said.

The WTSU Caravan was originated last spring and was popularly received at its first trip to Plainview. It will go out to other key cities in the Panhandle during the present school year.

Happy Homecoming Scheduled Friday

A day-long roster of events is expected to attract a large number of exes to the 11th Annual Homecoming for the Happy Public Schools, scheduled Friday.

About 1,000 invitations have been mailed to ex-Happy students all over the country and school officials are expecting a good turnout for the event.

Honored classes this year will be the Golden Anniversary Class of 1923, the Silver Anniversary Class of 1948 and the classes of 1913, 1933, 1943, 1953, 1963 and 1973.

Special Homecoming guests will be the Boys Bi-District Basketball champions of 1963.

Registration for the day's events will begin at 1 p.m. in the high school. Registration fee is $1.

The program begins with a performance by the Golden Cowboy Band slated at 2 p.m. in the Vivian Wesley Auditorium. Following will be a pep rally during which the Happy Cowboys will be introduced and the High School Homecoming queen crowned.

After the pep rally the Alumni Association will conduct a short business session and recognize the honored classes, the exes travelling the furthest distances, the mother who has the most students attending Happy Schools, the eldest ex-student present and the family with the most exes attending Happy Schools.

A Barbeque Supper will begin at 5:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Meal prices are $2 for adults and $1.50 for children 10 and under.

The event culminates on the playing field when the Cowboys meet the Nazareth Swifts at 8 p.m. in the Cowboys Corral.

Half-time activities include the presentation of special guests and the Homecoming Queen.

After the game, coffee will be served in the school cafeteria.

Prof Doubles As Carpenter

Over the course of a week, Dr. Darrell Munsell spends a lot of time studying at his desk at home. But weekends find the West Texas State University history professor in his garage, turning out solid wood desks for several of his fellow professors.

Two years ago Dr. Munsell was looking for a hobby. Since the golf course held no charms for him, he resurrected those woodworking skills he had learned in high school and began construction on a desk for his study.

Since then, his hobby has taken on broader dimensions. Beginning his woodworking efforts with a simple portable saw and some lumber, Dr. Munsell now boasts a garageful of power tools. And "commissions" from his colleagues have been coming in steadily.

Now sitting behind Munsell-made desks are Dr. Duane Guy, chairman of the WTSU history department; Dr. Barry Duman, WTSU economic department head, and Dr. Peter Petersen, assistant professor of history. Now in the works is a desk for fellow history professor Frank Heflin.

Munsell's wife Jane, says that her husband's hobby has contributed much to the couple's attractive home, located at 2430 15th Ave.

When the Munsells inherited some antique pieces over a year ago, Dr. Munsell put his skills to work in refinishing the old furniture.

An imposing grandfather clock in the spacious living room was constructed by Dr. Munsell from a do-it-yourself kit.

With son Darren, 3, about to outgrow his crib, Dr. Munsell is planning to make the youngster's first bed himself.

Munsell's plans also include expansion of his desk-design into a more adventurous phase. The professor says he is hoping to build a roll-top desk of antique design in the future.

The son of an amateur carpenter-mechanic, Dr. Munsell said that he got a "feel" for tools and woodworking early in life. While in high school, he spent two years in woodworking classes, building such utilitarian items as beds, bookshelves, chest of drawers and lamps.

After serving military duty, Dr. Munsell worked in the construction business in the interim between the service and college.

While pursuing college studies at Kansas State College, and later at the University of Kansas, Dr. Munsell let his woodworking skills languish until recently, when he decided to take them up again for "therapy and relaxation."

Preferring to work in such hard woods as oak, walnut and cherry, Dr. Munsell says he uses no blueprints for his furniture design.

Something of a connoisseur of good furniture, Dr. Munsell says he dislikes the increased use of plastic in place of wood in much of today's furniture. But good, hard wood, he says, is expensive and hard to come by these days.

His taste in furniture runs to Mediterranean, but he says that ornate style is more difficult to build than simpler Early American and Contemporary designs.

A scholar of English history, Dr. Munsell says that his knowledge of that discipline plays no role in his furniture-building. In fact his woodworking hobby is something of an "escape" from the academic world.

"I like diversity," Dr. Munsell says. "I imagine there's carpenters who turn to history books in their leisure hours, so why shouldn't it be the other way around?"

Scouts Sponsor Garage Sale

More Info On Indian Guides

By TOOTIE BYBEE

I FEEL FALL coming on and I'm resisting with all due strength. The cool crisp air tells me winter is due to sing its song soon. The aches and pains in my joints also tell me I had better resist. Come what may the seasons change and life goes on.

SAID I WOULD have some more information about the new Y Indian Tribes being organized in the Canyon area and thanks to Roger Whitehead and Larry Brooks I have the info. There have been three new tribes organized by The Sioux Tribe under the leadership of their new Chief Dave Coronado. Working together or in pairs the Siouxs have helped to organize two tribes in Rex Reeves and one in Gene Howe. In Rex Reeves Roy McGregor is the chief of the new Comanche Tribe and John Raymond is the chief of the other tribe and they have not as yet chosen their tribe name. In Gene Howe, Johnny Hicks is the chief of the new Apache Tribe. These tribes are made up of 1st and 2nd graders. The Y Indians are planning a campout Oct. 13 at Camp Christmas Tree and for the first time mothers are invited to attend the ceremonial. Under the leadership of Chief Roger Whitehead this past year the Sioux Tribe learned many exciting things and did so many activities. They built real teepees for their camping trips and they are really neat. The Big Brave of the year award went to Dave Coronado and Little Brave award to Roger Dale Whitehead Jr. So, going into their second year the tribe is full of plans and new ideas. Good luck!

HAPPIEST BIRTHDAYS TO Shellie Whitehead who turned 11 and received, among other things, a new ten speed. Matt Malson who is also 11 now and received a real cool football shirt with his last name lettered across the back and other goodies. And to Miss Barbara Ann Brooks, who, lucky girl, received a beautiful new round bed for her 13th birthday.

WELL, SATURDAY TURNED out to be quite a day. Approximately 400 Camp Fire girls turned out for the Whing Ding and all the fun. There were relays, volleyball, sack races, and all kinds of games going all morning. Thanks to the Physical Education Major's Club of West Texas the girls were kept busy and happy til lunch time. We all shared our picnic lunches together and then hiked and sang and came home tired but very, very happy. We were all so very pleased to welcome the new groups and I was especially happy to see so many new groups from Canyon schools there. Just enjoyed getting to know all the leaders and seeing the girls. I don't feel alone anymore. There are about eight or so Canyon Camp Fire groups now. YEA!!

THE THURSDAY CLUB met at Mike Whiteheads this week for lunch and we just didn't do a thing except enjoy each other's company this week. Often it is nice not to do anything but nothing and just visit and we did.

GUESS THIS WAS a good weekend for traveling. The Tows had Ann's sister and family, the Eugene Moores, down from Fort Worth and they brought the Tows a beautiful antique wall clock for a house warming gift. They told me what kind it is but I just forget. It is really beautiful.

THE EVANS WENT to Brownfield to visit kith and kin for the weekend.

GOOD LUCK TO Mrs. Patterson on the new rug she's making for her den. Just keep on gluing and it'll all go together in the end.

THE CANYON BANDS are having a spaghetti supper Oct. 15, Friday. Serving begins at 5:00. This will be before the Homecoming game between Canyon and Pampa. So, come on out and eat and go to the game. Besides the spaghetti there will be lettuce salad, ice tea or coffee, and dessert. Tickets are $1 for students and $1.50 for adults. Band members, 6th through high school, will be selling tickets and there is a $5 prize for the member who has the most in dollars and cents total sales. This is broken into different categories so more than one $5 will be given away. So buy a ticket and enjoy the meal and go to the ball game.

DID YOU ALL see all the little men falling from the sky Sunday afternoon? A skydiving club was really out in full force. The prettiest was the multi-colored parachute. Anyway, all the kiddoes enjoyed riding their bicycles around talking to the skydivers as they landed.

OH YES, WE now have five precious little baby kittens, presented to us by our kitty "Troubles" and boy do we have them. Anyway I have one given away; would anyone like to make it 2?3?4?5? at 622-1471. They are cute. All male!

CINDY WHAT IN this world were you doing on the driveway the other evening, a science experiment? With Sunflower seeds?

BLANCHE, PLEASE STAY home this week and meet with us on Thursday! Since Hud has been out of town and Blanche's brother is attending WT they have been driving home to New Mexico for short visits with the folks.

THANKS TO THE lady that writes the Umbarger column. The chow chow turned out just beautiful with your recipe and the lady who made Pear Honey just made my day with her recipe. I almost made the whole bushel of pears up in Pear Honey, it was so good. Heard a lot of ladies say they love the Canyon paper because of all the good country cooks in Randall County who share their recipes in the newspaper and I agree. In fact cooking is one of my downfalls except when the oven's on the blink, like mine right now. But thanks for the recipes, we love them.

TO TRACA ANN Cooper: Bless your big toe!

THE DISCOVERY CLUB girls went to town Monday and picked out the material for their ceremonial gowns and outfits. The Adventurer girls planned a big Halloween celebration. Now girls let's get busy.

THE YOUTH CHOIR of Friendship Baptist Church sang at the Frances Hospital Sunday afternoon. They said this was the sweetest audience they have ever had. Those attending from Mescalero Park were Dana Tow and Leslie Bybee. Some of the girls were out of town, etc. The Camp Fire girls are participating in the Help Young America campaign sponsored by Colgate-Palmolive. If you have any labels from their products — Colgate, Ultra-Brite, Ajax, Cold Power, Baggies, Irish Spring, Palmolive liquid, or Curad plastic bandages — please call us and let us pick them up from you. Gee, we would so appreciate.

ALSO, DON'T FORGET the PTA is saving Campbell Soup labels for needed equipment at Gene Howe so if you live in the park and will save the labels Deann Cooper or myself will be glad to pick them up from you if you will call. Now all those labels will give you something to do. If you save the Colgate-Palmolive labels it has to be both end flaps from tooth paste, box top and bottom from Cold Power, zip top from Ajax cleanser, word AJAX from cleaner or PALMOLIVE from dish washing liquid or the two front end panels from Irish Spring with net weight markings, two end flaps from Baggies and box top and bottom from bandages. Please help us.

WILL SEE YOU next time.

DEANN TELL YOUR daddy thanks for the Greens! And Tracy, I hope all your BOOS come true!

Roping Contest Set For This Week-End

The 4th Annual Wesley-Sims Memorial Roping Contest will be held Saturday and Sunday in Happy. These two days of action filled roping are dedicated to the late Bowie Wesley and Wendell Sims. This annual event of RCA professional roping is sponsored by the Happy Rodeo Association.

Added attractions to the roping this year will be a Sunday barbeque and a drawing for a trip to the RCA National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City for two adults.

Barbeque and all the trimmings will be cooked and served by the Rodeo Association members at noon preceding the Steer Roping. Chairmen of the barbeque are Eugene Jackson, Lloyd Rahlfs, and Norman Freeman.

Also, on Sunday, two lucky adults in attendance, will be awarded a trip to the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City Dec. 8-9.

Calf Roping will be in order Saturday, beginning at 2 p.m. Introduction of the ropers will be at 12 p.m. Fifty ropers will rope two head of fresh calves while competing for $3,000 in prize money.

At 2 p.m., Sunday, fifty ropers will be roping for a $17,500 purse. They will rope three head each of fresh steers. Introduction of Steer Ropers will be held at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at 102 Main St. in downtown Happy.

Trophy saddles, made by Bob Marrs of Amarillo, will be awarded to the winner of each event.

Last year's Arena Champions will be back defending their title this year. They are Merle Bond, Ordway, Colo., Calf Roping; and Joe Snively, Pawhuska, Okla., Steer Roping. Also competing will be many former World Champions, along with the present reigning RCA Steer Roping Champion of 1973, Roy (Tuffy) Thompson of Happy. Some of the other entrants are Troy Fort, Lovington, N.M., Ronnye Seawalt, Chico, Marvin Cantrell, Nara Visa, N.M., Bud Upton, San Angelo, Don McLaughlin, Ft. Collins, Colo., Shoot Webster, Leanapah, Okla., Allen Keller, Alathe, Colo., Toots Mansfield, Big Spring, Walter Arnold, Silverton, and Pecos McIntyre, Kiowa, Okla.

Lin Hilton, LaGrande, Ore., will be announcing both days of roping activities again this year. Hilton announced the OS Ranch roping at Post last weekend and the RCA Rodeo Finals in Oklahoma City last year.

A western dance will also be held Saturday night at 9 p.m. at the Jaycee Hall with music by Weldon Reed and "Solid Country" of Post.

Don't miss these two days of roping at its finest this weekend in Happy.

Cowboys Down Avondale 12-0

The Canyon Cowboys of the 6th grade league roared to another win Tuesday night over the Avondale team 12-0.

Blaine White scored one touchdown and Doug Davis scored another. Ken Johnson and Bruce Byrd proved defensive stalwarts as they brought down pass interceptions. Jeff McKay recovered a fumble.

The next game for the Cowboys will be at 2 p.m. Sunday against Belmar in Canyon.

Rod McKuen

Rod McKuen To Appear At WTSU

A poet. A man who knows and writes about lost loves and lonely cities. This is Rod McKuen.

West Texas State University presents "A Rap Session With Rod McKuen" at 8 p.m. Oct. 10 in the Activities Center on the Canyon campus. His appearance is the second in the fall Special Programs Series.

The best-selling poet in a generation, McKuen will talk with the audience about the subjects he knows best — unreturned love, animals or perhaps relaxing with a glass of wine on an autumn afternoon.

Although just a "rap session," McKuen will present some of his verse. His words will perhaps recreate for some a little of the delightful or mournful experiences of youth.

If one has ever done any or some of those things and a million more, McKuen's words can bring these moments back — soft edged with the distance of time, hazy with the super imposition of other images in other settings in other times.

McKuen's knowledge of many broad subjects stems from the fact that he has been on his own since age 11. Working sometimes as a lumberjack, a ditch digger, a cookie puncher, the shaggy-haired poet has seen every side of life.

A literary freak, a passing fad, a phenomenon to be ignored, studied, debunked, put down, sneered at or at most, condescendingly praised? Who knows? However, McKuen turned 40 last April, and the statistical charts list him as the best-selling poet of this era and the best-selling living author in hard back.

Tickets are available at the Activities Center at $2 for adults and $1 for non-WTSU students.

WTSU faculty and staff tickets are $1 while WTSU students may obtain tickets free with presentation of a current I.D.
